Randall Munson is an extraordinary international speaker; he will be the highlight of your event anywhere in the world.

We hired Randall Munson to be our keynote speaker at the international Computer Associates user conference, EDGE, in London, England. He had been recommended to us by a number of people who had seen him speak at other conferences. Randall exceeded our high expectations.

It is difficult to find a speaker like Randall Munson, who can connect with people from many different countries all at the same time. His warm, genuine personality is apparent to everyone in every culture. His high energy fired up the entire audience and had them slapping their sides with laughter. The content of his highly customized presentation was perfectly designed for our industry and our people.

Representatives from the United States association were so impressed with Randall Munson that they hired him for their next American conference and we also want to bring him back for our international conference.

I highly recommend Randall Munson, a true world-class speaker.
